SANTA GIVES CANDY TO LITTLE FOLKS

Carol Singers Visit Many Homes in Antioch on Christmas Eve

TREE IS BEAUTIFUL

The Community Christmas Tree presented by the Woman's Club Friday night proved a big success, probably for the "kids." Shortly after the dark the tree, situated at the junct of Lake and Main streets and duly decorated, was illuminated by many colored lights.

The children and the grown-ups started gathering shortly after 7:00 and at 8:30 the Christmas hymns were sung, led by Mrs. Hughes and Mrs. Gland and the Rev. Mumford. The children joined in on the songs they were acquainted with.

When the last strains of the final hymn were being sung a jingle of sleighbells were heard coming down from a north on Main street and into the circle of many children dashed Santa Claus with his "wife," loaded up w bags of candy. Needless to say did not take long for the children to exhaust his supply of candy and cheers from the little ones he made his exit.

It is hoped that this program will be repeated next year and every year by a club.

The music committee of the Woman's Club rounded out the program of the community Christmas tree in an exceedingly beautiful and appropriate manner. A company of carolers made rounds of the village Christmas tree.

The old Christmas carols known and loved by all were sung under the windows of many homes, the special purpose of the singers being to carry the Christmas message of cheer to the homes of the sick, the aged and the shut-ins.

The personnel of the carolers is more or less of a mystery as things are apt to be "The night before Christmas," but they sang into the quiet night the "peace and joy and good will to all" and many hearts were made happier by those Christmas carolers, whoever they may be. We thank them. It was an appropriate and beautiful ending to the program of Antioch's first community Christmas tree.

Trevor Happenings

Happy New Year to all.

Mrs. Talmadge of Chicago spent Tuesday with her sister, Mrs. C. Haselman.

Mrs. George Patrick and Mrs. Byron Patrick and son Robert were Burlington shoppers Tuesday, and also called on Mrs. Wm. Kruckman and family.

Mrs. L. H. Mickle was given a surprise party by her friends Tuesday afternoon in honor of her birthday. They presented her with a cut glass sugar bowl and creamer. Bunco furnished the afternoon entertainment. The guest served a dainty lunch after distributing of the prizes, which went to Mrs. Sam Matthews, Mrs. Willis Sheen, Mrs. John Clever and May Clever.

Mrs. Wm. Van Osdal, who had hiccoughs for nine successive days, was relieved after treatment at a Chicago hospital.

Mrs. Mickle, Mrs. Filson and son Horace and Art Karns were Kenosha shoppers Wednesday.

Fred Schreck and daughter Flossie were Christmas shoppers in Chicago the first of last week.

Mrs. Larwin was a Chicago visitor the middle of last week.

The community Christmas tree at Social Center hall on Thursday evening drew a full house. The teacher deserves much praise for the excellent program, which was given by the school children. All of the children and many of the older people took the opportunity of remembering their friends with gifts. Mr. Soley and Mr. Oetting will probably start on the road as soon as the weather moderates to entertain the little folks by the way with their gifts.

With weather conditions excellent and exceptionally large and varied stocks to choose from, Antioch merchants did the largest volume of business in recent years. A few of the merchants had the following to say in regard to the Christmas buying this year.

Mr. Lilebrand—Business was very good. Our Christmas trade was equal to that of the last two years combined.

Chase Webb—Very good year and better than the average.

Otto Klass—Twenty-five percent better than last year.

Williams Bros.—Very satisfactory Christmas business.

S. M. Walance—Pleased with my first Christmas season's business in Antioch.

Frank R. King—Business shows big improvement over last year.

Uncle Eben:
"Some folks," said Uncle Eben, "fall down on their promises in a way that makes you apologize for puttin' 'em to the trouble of explainin'."

The music for the service was played

Next Sunday is the last Sunday in Church School at the regular time,

The music will be played by Mr. Mc

New Year's Eve is a most fitting time

The seventh and eighth grades had Thursday afternoon as a day for the mothers to visit school. Invitations were sent out and special classes were given for their benefit.

The seventh and eighth grades with help of their teachers were very busy trimming their room, Dec. 19, for the occasion. Thursday afternoon, Dec.
21, "Mother's Day".

The seventh and eighth grades have made Christmas posters to decorate the room. They are now on display on both sides of the room.

We are to have only one week's vaca

In the Primary grades in Construc

CHICAGO TO BUILD COMMUNITY DENTAL CLINIC

Toothbrush Drill in Chicago Public School.

Ground will be broken soon for a great dental clinic in conjunction with the Chicago Training School for Home and Public Health Nursing to be operated along the lines of the Forsyth Dental Infirmary of Boston.

When Dr. John Dill Robertson, then health commissioner for the city of Chicago, held a health show in the Coliseum two years ago, he laid the foundation for the nurses' training school, which already has turned out 10,000 women, trained in the fundamentals of home nursing. The school's activities gradually broadened until it includes a dental clinic for children whose parents are unable to pay for this service, and also an infirmary for the treatment of the eyes of children with defective vision and where and every one of the 4,000. That sounded good to me and I was elated to know that the dentists felt as I felt about it; and when I began to learn a little more about it I found that the dentists of Chicago had felt this way for twenty years and had been expecting to build an institution of this kind, "I feel there is nothing on earth that can stop us from going ahead and I feel that we will not only 'out-Forsyth' Boston but will 'out-Forsyth' the world."

The nurses' training school with which the dental clinic will be operated was the silver lining that backed the influenza cloud in the autumn of 1918. From this epidemic grew the idea which promises to curb similar visitations in the future.

The training school was organized in the summer of 1919, almost immediately following the final abatement of the influenza.

When influenza again visited Chicago in the following year, 1920, the city was amply equipped with nurses to meet it, and proper nursing, it was conceded, was the one and only barrier to wide spread of the disease. But the barrier had been erected and it was effective.

The board of directors of the Chicago Training School for Home and Public Health Nursing consists of Mayor William Hale Thompson, Mrs. Annie MacKenzie, Dr. John Dill Robertson, Dr. William A. Evans, D. F. Kelly and Judge William R. Fetzer.

Life" at Crystal
New Year's Day

Mary Tilden found life as the wife of a railroad track foreman merely a treadmill of dirty dishes. Outside the western desert country in which they lived showed only sand, heat and ugliness. Even her little baby brought no peace to Mary, longing for the "pretty things of life" as the great city had shown to her. And one day, unable to stand it any longer, she boarded an eastbound train that had stopped for water, and ran away. The same train that took her away ran over and killed her husband on a single track trestle a short way out. Twenty-five years later showed Mary worn and tired by the fruitless struggle for the "pretty things" always just beyond her grasp, and still washing dishes. In even this toil she had to make way for a younger, and stronger worker, and tried to take poison in her desperation. Chance brought her neighbor, a young writer, to her door in the nick of time, and she found her niche in living in his home and doing the housework for him and his young wife, Alene, like herself so long ago, wild for the pretty things and loathing the round of housework. In her new freedom, Alene persuaded her husband to let her go back to work, plugging songs in a piano store. The tempter came to her there in the shape of an attractive young publisher and club man, who gave her a lift in his automobile one rainy night. Finding his wife's picture on the publisher's desk, when he went to discuss selling his story, David Tilden's jealousy was aroused and he started out with a pistol when his wife left him for a weekend.

Meantime Mary had discovered that David was her son, through his reading his story to her—really the story of his life. But she was terrified by the violence of his hatred for the mother who had deserted him and did not dare reveal what she knew. Seeing him go, Mary rushed after him, reached Henderson's apartment before him and pleaded with him to send Alene home. David came and fired at Henderson, killing him. Mary took the blame in spite of all that David could do. The story brings out the fact that she is his mother and the authorities merely think he is trying to shield her. Then it develops that the publisher is only wounded and will not prosecute, and reunion between husband, wife and mother is established.

The four seasons of the year are represented—from spring to spring. Thus the appearance of the set is to be altered accordingly and with the final storm much of it was destroyed. The population of the village is actually kept intact throughout the picture. Each resident presumably lives in the village and special houses or stores were assigned to all. When the auction of the old homestead is about to start, they flock to the scene just as real villagers would do.

Knowledge Possessed by Few.
There seems to be no part of knowledge in fewer hands than that of the coming when to have done.—Swift.

CHAPTER XVI

Up the James rode Erskine, hiding in the woods by day and slipping cautiously along the sandy road by night, circling about Tarleton's campfires, or dashing at full speed past some careless sentinel. Often he was fired at, often chased, but with a clear road in front of him he had no fear of capture. On the third morning he came upon a ragged sentinel—an American. Ten minutes later he got his first glimpse of Lafayette, and then he was hailed joyfully by none other than Dave Yandell, Capt. Dave Yandell, shorn of his woodsmen's dress and panoplied in the trappings of war.

Cornwallis was coming on. The boy, he wrote, cannot escape me. But the boy—Lafayette—did, and in time pursued and forced the Englishman into a cul-de-sac. "I have given his lordship the disgrace of a retreat," said Lafayette. And so—Yorktown!

Late in August came the message that put Washington's great "soul in arms." Rochambeau had landed six thousand soldiers in Connecticut, and now Count de Grasse and a French fleet had sailed for the Chesapeake.

General Washington at once resorted to camouflage. He laid out camps ostensibly opposite New York and in plain sight of the enemy. He made a feigned attack on their posts. Rochambeau moved so, and reached the Delaware before the British grasped the Yankee trick. Then it was too late. The windows of Philadelphia were filled with ladies waving handkerchiefs and crying bravos when the tattered Continentals, their clothes thick with dust but hats plumed with sprigs of green, marched through amid their torn battle flags and rumbling cannon. Behind followed the French in "gay white uniforms faced with green," and martial music throbbed the air. Down the Chesapeake they went in transports and were concentrated at Williamsburg before the close of September. Cornwallis had erected works against the boy, for he knew nothing of Washington and Count de Grasse, nor had Anthony and General Nelson, who were south of the James to prevent escape into North Carolina.

"To your goodness," the boy wrote to Washington, "I am owing the most beautiful prospect I may ever behold." Then came De Grasse, who drove off the British fleet, and the mouth of the net was closed.

Cornwallis heard the cannon and sent Clinton to appeal for help, but the answer was Washington himself at the head of his army. And then the joyous murmur.

"Tis our first campaign!" cried the French gayly, and the Continentals joyfully answered:

"Tis our last!"

At Williamsburg the allies gathered, and with Washington's army came Colonel Dale, now a general, and young Capt. Harry Dale, who had brought news from Philadelphia that was of great interest to Erskine Dale.

In that town Dane Grey had been a close intimate of Andre, and that intimacy had been the cause of much speculation since. He had told Dave of his mother and Early Morn, and Dave had told him gravely that he must go get them after the campaign was over and bring them to the fort in Kentucky. If Early Morn still refused to come, then he must bring his mother, and he reckoned grimly that no mouth would open in a word that could offend her. Erskine also told of Red Oaks and Dane Grey, but Dave must tell nothing to the Dates—not yet, if ever.

They marched next morning at daybreak. At sunset of the second day they bivouacked within two miles of Yorktown and the siege began. The allied line was a crescent, with each tip resting on the water—Lafayette commanding the Americans on the right, the French on the left under Rochambeau. De Grasse, with his fleet, was in the bay to cut off approach by water. Washington himself put the match to the first gun, and the mutual cannonade of three or four days began. The scene was "sublime and stupendous."

Two British men-of-war lying in the river were struck with hot shot and set on fire, and the result was full of terrible grandeur. The sails caught and the flames ran to the tops of the masts, resembling immense torches. One fled like a mountain of fire toward the bay and was burned to the water's edge.

And then the surrender:

The day was the 19th of October. The victors were drawn up in two lines a mile long on the right and left of a road that ran through the autumn fields south of Yorktown. Washington stood at the head of his army on the right, Rochambeau at the head of the French on the left. Behind on both sides was a great crowd of people to watch the ceremony.

Slowly out of Yorktown marched the British colors, cased drums beating a significant English air:

"The world turned topsy-turvy."

Lord Cornwallis was sick. General O'Hara bore his lord's sword. As he approached, Washington saluted and pointed to General Lincoln, who had been treated with indignity at Charleston. O'Hara handed the sword to Lincoln. Lincoln at once handed it back and the surrender was over.

Between the lines the British marched on and stacked arms in a nearby field. Some of them threw their muskets on the ground, and a British colonel bit the hilt of his sword from rage.

As Tarleton's legion went by, three pairs of eyes watched eagerly for one face, but neither Harry nor Capt. Dave Yandell saw Dane Grey—or did Erskine Dale.

CHAPTER XVII

To Harry and Dave, Dane Grey's absence was merely a mystery—to Erskine it brought foreboding and sickening fear. General Dale's wound having opened afresh, made traveling impossible, and Harry had a slight bayonet thrust in the shoulder. Erskine determined to save them all the worry possible and to act now at the head of the family himself. He announced that he must go straight back at once to Kentucky and Captain Clark. Harry stormed unavailingly and General Dale pleaded with him to stay, but gave reluctant leave. To Dave he told his fears and Dave vehemently declared he, too, would go along, but Erskine would not hear of it and set forth alone.

Slowly enough he started, but with every mile suspicion and fear grew the faster and he quickened Firefly's pace. The distance to Williamsburg was soon covered, and skirting the town, he went on swiftly for Red Oaks. Suppose he were too late, but even if he were not, too late, what should he do, what could he do? Firefly was sweeping into a little hollow now, and above the beating of her hoofs in the sandy road, a clink of metal reached his ears beyond the low hill ahead, and Erskine swerved inside into the bushes. Some one was coming, and apparently out of the red ball of the sun hanging over that hill sprang a horseman at a dead run—black Ephraim.

"Stop!" Erskine cried, but the negro thundered on, as though he meant to ride down anything in his way. Firefly swerved aside, and Ephraim shot by, pulling in with both hands and shouting: "Marse Erskine! Yassuh, yassuh! Thank Gawd you're come!" When he wheeled he came back at a gallop—nor did he stop. "Come on, Marse Erskine!" he cried. "No time to waste. Come on, suh!" With a few leaps Firefly was abreast, and neck and neck they ran, while the darky's every word confirmed the instinct and reason that had led Erskine where he was.

"Yassuh, Miss Barbary gwine to run away wid dat mean white man. Yassuh, dis very night."

"When did he get here?"

"Dis mawnin'. He been pesterin' her an' pleadin' wid her all day an' she been cryin' her heart out, but mammy say she's gwine wid him. Pears like she can't he'p herself."

"Is he alone?"

"No, suh, he got an officer an' four sojers wid him."

"How did they get away?"

"He say as how dey was on a scoutin' party an' 'scaped."

"Does he know that Cornwallis has surrendered?"

"Oh, yassuh, he to! Miss Barbary dat. Dat's why he says he got to git away right now an' she's got to go wid him right now."

"Did he say anything about General Dale and Mr. Harry?"

"Yassuh, he say dat dey's all right an' dat dey ain' you will be hot on his tracks. Dat's why mammy tol' me to ride like dat debbil Firefly on."

"Does he know that Tarleton's army is takin' dem to Richmond."

"Indeed, yes," returned Grey, "and kindly instruct him not to use it to protect you." For answer Erskine sprang from the shadow—discarding formal courtesies.

"En garde!" he called sternly.

PROSPECTS OF AGRICULTURE
(By Sec'y of Agriculture Wallace)
Twelve months ago most of the six million farmers of the United States were starting on the long hard climb out of the valley of economic depression. They have not yet attained the heights which are bathed in the grateful sunshine of prosperity. Some, indeed, have fallen by the way. Others are still in the valley. Nevertheless, as we stop a bit and look backward we can see that very considerable ground has been gained by the great majority, and we can enter the New Year with renewed hope and with that courage which comes from the realization that we are really making progress.

A year ago, when speaking of the prospects for farming in 1922, I said that while there was no reason to expect boom times for the farmer in the near future, there was promise of better times, both for the farmer and for those whose business is largely dependent upon him. The year has brought fulfillment of that promise. Speaking generally, times are better, much better, than a year ago, both for agriculture and for industry.

Crops have been good, on the whole. Prices of the major crops are mostly considerably higher. While there has been a corresponding advance in the prices of the things the farmer must buy, the total sum which farmers will receive for the crops of this year is greater by a billion and a half dollars or more than that which they received for the crop of last year. This will certainly mean better times on the farm, and farm folks will be able to ease up a little on the grinding economy they were forced to practice the preceding year.

The labor cost of producing the crops of 1922 was still further reduced. There were some substantial reductions in freight rates. Much helpful legislation has been enacted and will be this winter. Interest rates are lower and the credit strain has been eased. This has made it possible for many farmers who were rather heavily involved to refund their obligations and get themselves in condition to win through.

There are still some dark spots. In some sections weather conditions were unfavorable and crops were short, and farmers in these sections are having a very hard time of it. Freight rates are still too high, especially those who must pay for a long haul to market.

Taxes are high, but this is largely due to the increase in local taxes, over which farmers themselves must exercise control.

There has been gratifying growth in farmers' cooperative marketing associations, and more of them are being organized on a sound business basis.

Aside from the help which has been given by legislation and by administrative activities, strong economic forces are at work to restore a more normal relation between agriculture and other industries.

The peril in the agricultural depression is more keenly realized by other groups than ever before, and on every hand a sincere desire is being evidenced to do what can be done safely to help the farmer better his condition.

Everything considered, we have good reason to expect still better things for agriculture in the year 1923.

America's Food and Medicine May Go for Naught if Russians Cannot Secure Clothing

"If Russia's children, and adults as well, are to be saved from death this winter from exposure—after the charity of America has brought them through the famine of last winter, they must be supplied with clothing." This is a concensus of opinion of the American Relief Administration staff in Russia, from Colonel Haskell down to the inspectors, according to their reports to Herbert Hoover, head of the A. R. A.

From every part of Russia where the A. R. A. has been feeding children and adults, and has been instituting sanitation and medical service and inoculations to save literally millions of lives, the story is the same—that the children lack even the barest essentials of under-wear, shoe stockings or outer wear, with which to protect them-selves against the rigors of the Russian winter. And the need of aid in this direction for adults, too, is indicated by statements of recently returned workers, who state that in cases where Russian employees have been given a blanket for extra services the blankets have almost invariably been made into overcoats. Literally millions of children, say reports, have no shoes—an item which in itself may make it impossible for them to go to American Relief child-feeding kitchens. Free shoes and stockings have been provided for 250,000 children who are absolutely without footwear, but the whole problem is beyond the reach of any general funds now available.

The American Relief Administration, to meet this emergency, has put into effect a Clothing Remittance, functioning in every way as does the now world famous Hoover Food Remittance. For twenty dollars sent to the A. R. A. at 42 Broadway, New York, the following articles, each equivalent in value, will be delivered to any designated person in Russia: 4 2-3 yards fifty-six inch twenty ounce dark blue wool cloth; 4 yards of thirty-two inch black cotton lining; 8 yards of twenty-seven inch flannel; 16 yards of unbleached muslin; 8 large black ivory buttons; 16 small black ivory buttons; 16 small white bone buttons; 2 spools No. 30 black cotton thread; 2 spools No. 40 white cotton thread.

One package will clothe one adult or two children all winter, and remittances ordered for general relief will be used for neediest cases, thousands of which are heart-breaking.

PACKAGE FREIGHT PROVES BOON TO THE SMALL TOWN MERCHANT

Chicago's System, With 2,500 Cars Going Out Daily, Keeps the Country Dealer Abreast of the Times.

Chicago's package freight system, by which small-town merchants, particularly in the South and Southwest, are kept abreast of the times, has been developed to 2,500 cars a day.

Chicago package freight plays an important part in the life of the small community. The flapper there has the latest seasonal styles just as soon as her cousins on the Boul Mich. The town Beau Brummel no longer is five or six months behind the city man in the cut of his clothes.

It is of inestimable value to country merchants in more ways than one. It helps them make satisfied customers and satisfied customers help to build up business.

Through the Association of Commerce, in co-operation with the railroads and shippers, Chicago has developed this package freight car system by which all consignments to a given point are consolidated so that delays in transfer are avoided. This but a package of the same size containing (inware only) $10.00. From 300 to 400 packages are put in one car, depending on the size.

Before the days of this system less than carload shipments went out in a haphazard sort of way and the merchant in Waco, Tex., or some other such point, considered himself lucky if the piano he ordered for Christmas arrived some time around Easter. Now he gets it in five days.

This merchandise service is the result of years of study of the needs of the small-town merchant and a thorough analysis of the country's vast network of rail transportation. By way of illustration of what had to be overcome it may be stated that there are more than 200 different ways of routing freight from Chicago to Charlotte, N. C., but only one route has a through package car to Charlotte.

It required several years of study to determine the quickest and most economical route to this point. Test shipments were made over many of the 200 different routes, and in some instances shippers' representatives or representatives of the Association of Commerce freight traffic bureau made personal inspections.

U. S. MARKET REPORT

Weekly Marketgram by Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Washington.—For the week ending December 16—DAIRY PRODUCTS—Butter, 92¢-score, $2½¢ Chicago. Cheese prices at Wisconsin primary markets: Daisies, 27¢; Daisies Daisies, 27¢; Longhorns and Square Pies, 27¢.

HAY—No. 1 timothy, $3.50 St. Louis, $2.00 Chicago, $1.80 Cincinnati, $1.70 Minneapolis; No. 1 prairie, $1.70 St. Louis, $1.50 Minneapolis.

FEED—Bran, $2.00; middlings, $2.50; rye middlings, $2.50; flour middlings, $3.00; Minneapolis; white, hoary and nearly so. Government ownership advocates continually use the federal postal system as an efficient revenue producing institution as an example which it would be well for the city of Chicago to follow.

The postal system has been repeatedly urged, locally and nationally, as a model of government operation on a profit-making basis.

The report made public by General Dawes indicates that emphasis should be placed on "other causes" when the department as on Dec. 3—ascribes the deficit for this year to "fire, burglary, and other causes."

CHICAGO HAS BIG BLAZE

Flames Raze the Polk Street Passenger Station—Loss Estimated at $1,500,000.

Chicago, Dec. 22.—The Dearborn Street passenger station, in service since May 1, 1885, was almost completely destroyed by fire. As a consequence Chicago's passenger terminals for the Santa Fe, Grand Trunk, Monon, Chicago & Western Indiana, Erie, Wabash and Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroads were temporarily disorganized. The loss is estimated at $1,500,000.

GERMANY APPEALS TO U. S.

Berlin Asks That Expert Financiers Be Named to Fix Reparations Sum.

Washington, Dec. 20.—Wages will return to the levels in effect before the war, Julius H. Barnes, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, said in an address before the Washington City club.

"The advance since 1913," he said, "is not war-time inflation, but a real increase in individual earning power," and, he said, "an economic system which can give us more for every one—more automobiles, more general education, more modern plumbing, more gramophones and bigger real wages must be preserved."

ROBBER GANG UNDER ARREST

Chicago Police Nab Ten Members of the So-Called $500,000 Holdup Organization.

Chicago, Dec. 22.—What is termed as a $500,000 gang of bank robbers, safe blowers and holdup men who have been operating throughout the Mississippi valley was rounded up by Chicago detectives. More than $70,000 in Liberty bonds, warehouse receipts and other stocks and bonds were recovered. Ten alleged members of the gang are under arrest and several others are sought.

TROOPS TO CURB KU KLUX

Governor Parker of Louisiana Orders Company of Guardsmen to Morehouse Parish.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 20.—Gov. John M. Parker took his first active step in his promised campaign to curb the activities of the Ku Klux Klan in Louisiana when he ordered a company of national guardsmen to proceed to Mer Rouge and Bastrop in Morehouse parish to await his orders. Morehouse parish is said to be the hotbed of Klan activities in Louisiana.

Treaty Abrogation Sought. Washington, Dec. 23.—Senator Mc-Kellar (Dem.) introduced an amendment to the shipping bill to have the House and Senate abrogate certain commercial treaties whose abrogation was directed in the 1920 marine act.

Free Seed Bill Defeated. Washington, Dec. 22.—By a vote of 74 to 71, the House defeated an amendment offered by Representative Langley to the agricultural appropriation bill for a $300,000 appropriation for free distribution of seed.

TAKES LID OFF P. O. RECORDS

Charles G. Dawes Reveals a Huge Deficit in the Department.

BALANCE SHEET PREPARED

Report of the Former Director of the Budget Shows a Shortage of $16,198,000 for First Quarter of 1922.

Chicago, Dec. 22.—Gen. Charles G. Dawes made public here the suppressed balance sheet of the post office department of the United States government.

"For the first time in the history of this country," the former director of the budget asserted, "there was prepared not only a balance sheet of the post office departments in terms understandable by the average man, but a report in the accepted business form of the current operations of the department for the first quarter of this year."

This report shows a deficit of $16,198,000 for the first quarter of 1922. This is at the rate of $64,000,000 for the year.

For years the public has been given the impression that the post office department was self-sustaining or nearly so. Government ownership advocates continually use the federal postal system as an efficient revenue producing institution as an example which it would be well for the city of Chicago to follow.

The postal system has been repeatedly urged, locally and nationally, as a model of government operation on a profit-making basis.

The report made public by General Dawes indicates that emphasis should be placed on "other causes" when the department as on Dec. 3—ascribes the deficit for this year to "fire, burglary, and other causes."

LABOR OUTLOOK IS ENCOURAGING

Department of Labor at Washington Completes Survey of Conditions.

BUILDING TRADE HAS RECORD

Shortage of Skilled Labor Reported in Manufacturing States—Only Seasonal Suspensions of Work Affect Few States.

Washington, Dec. 20.—The employment situation is encouraging and prospects are bright for the remainder of the winter, according to a survey just completed by the employment service of the Department of Labor. Nearly all states reported a condition much better than at this time last year, and the situation was described as fair to good in most sections.

States affected by seasonal suspensions of logging operations or farm work, and those where transportation is hampered by strikes and car shortages, were the only ones reporting unfavorably, and in all of them improvement was expected soon after the first of the year.

Building operations throughout the country were reported holding a pace almost unprecedented, only a few states in the North showing a slowing up because of the weather.

The manufacturing states, almost without exception, reported shortages of skilled mechanics. Textile mills were running full blast and needed labor. The automobile industry also was running 100 per cent, but the labor supply about equaled the demand. The steel industry showed a general expansion, with a demand for all kinds of labor.

EXTENDS FARM CREDIT

Federal Reserve Board Increases Sums Available.

Body Amends Its Regulations—Reduces Count of Maturities Up to Six Months Provided.

ENGINEER PREVENTS WRECK

Washington, Dec. 20.—Announcement was made by the Federal Reserve Board of amendment to its regulations which will materially increase the amount of farm credit which the Federal Reserve system is extending.

This move by the board comes at a time when administration and insurgent leaders in the house are struggling for leadership in the passage of a new law for the extension of further credit facilities to the farmer.

The reserve board changed its regulations to provide that bankers' acceptances with maturities up to six months, which are drawn by growers or co-operative marketing associations to finance the orderly marketing of nonperishable staple agricultural products, are eligible for rediscount at reserve banks.

ARREST 22 IN NAVY THEFTS

How to build a Marquette Cement manure pit for 20 cows

Because it will prevent the loss of valuable fertilizer elements in the liquid, a Marquette Cement manure pit will soon pay for itself. You'll find it easy to build, too.

About 100 cu. ft. per cow is the allowance made. For a herd of 20 cows, for example, a pit is recommended with inside measurements 24 ft. by 20 ft. and averaging 4 ft. deep. The floor should be 6 in. thick and the walls 10 in. thick at the bottom and 6 in. at the top.

To make sure of best results use Marquette Cement and a 1:2:4 mix. For the pit described above you will need about 34 barrels of Marquette Cement, 10 cu. yds. of sand and 20 cu. yds. of stone. Your Marquette dealer will gladly give you further construction details.

Owe Obligations to Commonwealth

Backbone of community service found support of Merchants & Residents

What do you own home town? Whatever the is, none will be presented to you payment. The debt is an instant one, no matter how large it is. You do not realize the size of it, nor will try to tell you. You know that the town has done for you, you know better than anybody else that you ought to do for it town.

Two questions serve to bring the issue home to you:

When your friend children were critically ill, was the doctor from the city who put them through?

You don't or think of calling him. You first thought was of the home own doctor, and he saved the lives of your children.

Credit is Extended.

When you lost your job, who gave you credit and tilted you over the winter?

It clearly wasn't the store in the city that gives "bargains" for the countryman. The merchant on "Front" or "Main Street" stood by you, as he has for others, and as he did some time when the emergency arises.

If things have not happened to you, have happened to your neighbor, and you know about them. Mere men cannot pay for disinterested service such as the doctor and the dentist render under the circumstances. And they are not cited with idea of wakening a feeling of obligation toward those individuals who render us signal service on extraordinary occasions. They are brought up, rather, with the view to make every man, woman and child realize his partnership in the community and his responsibility in that partnership which means so much to him.

doctor and the merchant are not only men toward whom others in community owe this obligation to maintain the community as a self-sustaining entity. They are simply as examples of how the proposal works out concretely. They are the leaders who have considered what they are and what they do to the service of the town in which they live, and all for the welfare of its people and their future community. On the basis of the compensation alone they ought receive some form of pay for their services, because even the Bible concedes that the worker is always worthy of his hire.

be cured by the doctor and credit extended by the merchant are two specific instances of small favors. These are not all the benefits, for the number is legion. In good times as well as hard times they come, because they are not restricted by the season of the year or limited to periods of necessity. Like "the gentle rain from heaven" about which Portia speaks so benignly in her famous courtroom speech to Shylock in "The Merchant of Venice," Shakespeare's masterpiece, these benefits fall upon "just" and "unjust" alike. Nobody is shut out from their enjoyment.

Happy and Content.

Happiness and contentment bring about also a rich social life. You get together with your neighbors in moments of relaxation from your day's toil and enjoy intercourse with them. Clubs and organizations unite you in bonds that hold you together for one purpose or another.

A score of other things might be mentioned, but space forbids. For instance, there is the library, with its rich storehouse of the best in the world's literature. Also, there are the material things that minister to the comfort and well-being of the people. Among them are paved or macadamized streets, concrete sidewalks, corner lights, police protection and a fire department; electric or some other system of lighting for the home, gas to make kitchen work easier, water, sewer and similar improvements and conveniences.

What Will They Do for You?

If you buy a new suit, or some hardware, groceries from an out-of-town dealer or the mail-order man, do you think those merchants will help pave the streets of Antioch; or contribute money towards making your town a better place in which to live? You know that they will not. And you know that the money you give them can never be used for the benefit of yourself and your home. But you do know that money spent in Antioch remains in Antioch and is used for our own good. The merchants of Antioch are here as a vital part and factor in the development of this place.

The Holstein cow is the farmer's cow—big, rugged, able to consume roughage of all kinds, produces large calves which fit quickly for veal, if any surplus and besides all this holds the world's records for milk and butter for 1 day, 7 days, 30 days, 60 days, 90 days, 305 days and 1 year.

The "Butterine" Dairyman

When you see a dairyman (?)—any man keeping cows—buying "Butterine" you see a man who is deliberately fighting his own business besides cheating his own children and family in the very one thing they should use liberally for their best health.

It's an old story, but "pat" for the "butterine" milk producer user. Here is a story:

A visitor at the International Fat Stock Show saw a wonderful pen of fat hogs. Standing alongside of the pen looking at the hogs was a skinny, ill fed, tattered boy. "Whose pigs are those," said the visitor. "My Dad's" replied the boy. "I expect," said the visitor, "it's great to live in the country and have all the fine, clean, pure milk one can drink ain't it son?" "I don't know," said the boy. "My dad don't give us any, he feeds it all to the hogs." So the man who sells milk and butter and buys back "butterine"—he is feeding someone else the vital necessities of life and giving his own the sawdust.

To live longer—better.

EAT MORE BUTTER AND CHEESE

Next week we will tell of a recent acquisition to Lake Villa. He came in quietly, is a good citizen, has a fine family, is a breeder of pure bred Holsteins and we are glad he is here. Better yet we did not lose the owner of the farm which the newcomer has rented for several years.

John Walker of Waukegan and Will Walker and family ate Christmas dinner at William Walker, Sr.'s. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stratton and son spent Monday with Mrs. Stratton's parents in Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. John Leonard and Mrs. Martinek of Lake Forest, James Leonard and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hodgkins, all of Chicago, were Christmas guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Leonard, Sr.

Mr. Keeley and Mr. Fowler spent Christmas with their family here. George Gray of Chicago is visiting his cousins here.

The Christmas program at the church was very nice. Everybody enjoyed it very much. The decorations were beautiful and best of all the children had a real Christmas tree and Santa Claus was there to help the occasion. It is hoped that we may have many more of these programs. Thanks are extended to the committee for their work.

The Church on the Hill

The Christmas season of 1922 will soon exist only in memory. With it will go many happy events that we will wish to live over again, but in their places comes the new year—a year of hope, of opportunity and of service—one in which each one will have the privilege of showing his true worth. Let us begin now to make it the best year of our lives. One way to do that is to be at church each Sunday.

There is a spot in the corner of our soul's garden that needs watering at least once each week. Come next Sunday. The subject is, "The Open Door." You are very welcome.

Last Sunday evening the pageant of the Nativity was given before a crowded house, and everyone expressed their appreciation of the wonderfully pretty service. The decorations which were all white, gave a beautiful setting for the wonderful story of the birth of Jesus, and the first Christmas. The Sunday school Leonard is home from Forest.

Then present white gifts for the Lake Villa Orphanage. Santa Claus then arrived to distribute the gifts of the day and the treat of candy, nuts, etc., and pop-corn.

The service concluded by the singing of "Silent Night" and the benediction.

After the services, the girls in charge of Miriam went out to sing Christmas carols or those who were not able to go out, and judging from cards from different sources, the girls enjoyed the carols. We wish you all happy New Year.

Mrs. Frank Kubis is a Chicago shopper last week.

Last Thursday was a school day at school and a number of others visited the school to repair program was put on, but they had an opportunity to see the regular work of the classes.

Miss Alice Hauer is home from Urbana for her Christmas vacation.

And Walter Douglas is Edward first Christmas. The Sunday school Leonard is home from Forest.

REMEMBER THIS

In previous adds in this space, the wisdom of spending your money in Lake Villa, your home, has been shown. Bear in mind that the benefit is expressed as your's as well as our's. Remember that you economize when you patronize the merchant of Lake Villa because he is able to give you the same or better goods for less money. Remember that the money you spend stays right here and actually comes back to you. Wish it to be.
